Foreword

The "Echoes" staff submits to your criticism the third "Senior Echoes." You may be surprised to find it so reduced in size, but we believe that Tecumseh High cannot support so expensive an annual as heretofore, and we have endeavored to publish a book within our limits. We realize all too well that it has its faults, but we can only say that we have done our best. It is our sincere wish that the Class of '22 will profit by our mistakes and that "Senior Echoes" next year will be the best of any yet published.

And now the "Senior Echoes" of 1921 makes its last bow. As we look back upon the four years spent in this building and especially upon the last year, we realize the great strength of the school.

As Tecumseh is the biggest little town on earth and we are proud of it, so is the "Senior Echoes" of 1921: the biggest little book of the three. We feel we cannot be successful by making a large book so we have condensed it and given to you what we consider the best and most interesting things of the school and the class. We are all interested in the school and its activities, but few really know what is being done and accomplished. We should like to bring to you these things through our representative, the "Senior Echoes."

We wish to thank Mr. Coller who has done most excellent work in the photography; Miss Donaldson, who has helped most wonderfully with this book, and we certainly must not forget the man who has always been willing to help us out of our difficulties—Mr. Laidlaw.

We realize that "experience is the best teacher," and we have found by experience that it is hard to publish a book that really is a good representative of the school and especially of the class; therefore we advise the class of 1922 to appoint someone of the class of "will be Juniors," or class of 1923, to be their assistant editor-in-chief or assistant business manager so that he will have had some experience in putting out one of these books and when the class of 1923 wishes to make up its "Senior Echoes" it can proceed with far less difficulty than previous classes.

Another suggestion that we have to make concerns the limitations of the gymnasium, such as the lack of steel lockers in the dressing rooms. When the high school was opened these were not necessary, but with the growth of the school and the introduction of the physical training course, they have become a real need.
As physical training is compulsory, every hook in the girls' dressing room is taken, and more or less confusion necessarily results. Although everyone is as careful as possible, personal equipment is continually getting lost. While most of us respect other people's belongings, the temptation to use any gym clothing that is not in use is too great for a few. We feel that the physical training course is becoming too expensive if one pupil must buy several pairs of shoes in one year.

In the boys' dressing room the conditions are far from ideal, due to the many different teams who use the gymnasium. The need of lockers here is as great as in the girls' dressing room.

We believe that all this could be overcome by the addition of steel lockers. We realize that steel lockers are expensive, and at first it might seem that their cost is prohibitive, but after due consideration we are convinced that they would pay in the end. Steel lockers are the only satisfactory kind for gymnasiums, as they are ventilated and sanitary as well as safe. They would not only insure the safety of our gymnasium equipment but add to the appearance of our dressing rooms as well.

In order to make Tecumseh High a bigger and better school, improvements ought to be continually added and we think that steel lockers should be one of the first.

For the sake of the future students of Tecumseh High we hope that in the near future both the boys' and the girls' dressing rooms will be provided with steel lockers.

Although the public has given excellent support to most of the High activities we feel that the Lyceum Course is not being supported as it should be. Each year the high school has put on this course not to benefit itself financially, but to give the public four evenings of the very best entertainment possible. The courses chosen are of the highest type and contain excellent talent. Last year there was a deficit of forty dollars on the course and there promises to be one this year. Get behind the High school and support the Lyceum Course next year.

In reading the "Echoes" the advertisements should not be overlooked. The advertisers in this publication represent the most liberal and progressive business men of Tecumseh. Their merchandise is of the highest quality and furthermore no small part of the success of this book is due to them. They are behind the High school. Are you? Read their advertisements!

The Seniors

What class goes Echo-ing through the years?
'Tis nineteen twenty-one.
Please welcome them with hearty cheers
Whose life work's just begun.
No matter in what Field they worked
This class has always done things Wright
Their lessons they have never shirked
Although to get them took all night.
Upon their roll no monk you'll find,
Although they have an Abbott
Who has a very learned mind,
And is sprightly as a rabbit.
In any sphere you chance to Turner
From Cicero to English prose,
One bonny lass has proved a learner
As her report card clearly shows.
Miss Conklin is a winsome maid
Who'd take Comfort on a rock.
But the young man seems to be afraid
When Papa winds the clock.
Miss Courtad is a baseball crank,
And the lovely little sinner
Puts Detroit in second rank
And picks Cleveland for the winner.
She's never absent from a class,
In fact, she's never tardy
They say she's always sure to pass
This bonny lass so Hardy.
Rip, awakened from his lengthy snooze
With Alice has gone Whelan
Perhaps if he should really choose
Her heart he might be stealin'.
She gives our class distinctive tone,
She's witty, shrewd and wise.
But the boys declare her heart is stone
When she makes McAdam-eyes.
As questionnaire Joe is a pow'r
And Abe is strictly in it
One asks ten questions every hour,
The other, ten a minute.
These verses crude and puns most glaring
I dedicate to one and all.
I trust they prove to be less Waring
Than a losing game of basketball.

THE Y. M. C. A.—MAKER OF MEN

Seventy-seven years ago in the mind of George Williams, a young Englishman, there originated the idea of a young men's organization which would seek the moral, mental, and physical uplift of its members.

Williams and his friend, Edward Beaumont, both clerks on small salaries, formed a society of their fellow-clerks to help one another lead better lives. June 6, 1844, in a little room in the garret of their employer's store, twelve young clerks met and organized the first Young Men's Christian Association. At first it was laughed and jeered at, but it steadily grew, and as it grew the physical, social and educational departments were emphasized as much as the religious.

Soon there were small societies formed in other parts of England, also in Scotland and Ireland. But it was not until 1851 that anything of the kind appeared in America. In December 1851 Mr. T. V. Sullivan, a sea-captain, organized a society in Boston which was modeled after something he had heard existed in England. This venture began in a small way and had practically no capital and no backing. However, the value of it as a society for the conservation of America's manhood and as a society to help men avoid shipwreck was soon seen. In view of this fact, capital came to it and men of affairs became interested in it.

Another important organization of the Y. M. C. A. was formed at Montreal about the same time, and in three years there were forty more associations in America. Societies had also been formed in Europe and it became necessary to have a central organization, so in August 1855 a convention was held at Paris and a conference was formed which met triannually.

June 7, 1854 the first international meeting was held at Buffalo and an International Committee was formed. Then in 1869 a wonderful Y. M. C. A. building was erected in New York City costing a half million dollars. This contained the first Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and became the pattern for Europe as well as for America. It was largely due to Mr. Robert McBurrey who was the secretary of the New York Association, that this building was built.

A separate boys' department was organized at Salem, Massachusetts in 1869. And association training schools were organized at Springfield, Massachusetts in 1885.

Year after year the Association advanced until all peoples welcomed it. The fact that the semi-centennial of its life celebrated in 1894 was held at Westminster Abbey shows the advance up to this time.

The Young Men's Christian Association entered the army in 1861, and though comparatively little was done during the Civil War, a special convention was held which sent out five thousand helpers to camps and hospitals and raised $5,000,000 for work on battlefields. During the Spanish-American war a much more extensive work was carried on. Secretaries went with the army to the camps in America, then to Cuba, Porto Rico, and the Philippines. Some fine buildings were put up at some of the forts. But as it took money to properly equip these buildings, there was only a small beginning made. Nevertheless, the Y. M. C. A. in the army and navy showed progress which found its climax in the World War.

While the Y. M. C. A. was working in the army it progressed in other ways also. It was known all over the world. The work in America was divided into "home" and "foreign" departments. In all foreign work the association was guided by certain fundamental principals: (1) It never entered a non-Christian city without a unanimous invitation from the missionary societies there at work. (2) In locating its first stations, a traveling secretary first made a careful inspection of the field and designated the great strategic points at which men were concentrated. (3) Its earliest efforts were directed toward establishing "points of contact" with men and disarming their prejudices by giving them material advantages that they could find nowhere else. (4) The work was limited to one city until the first Association was thoroughly entrenched and was a true model for other cities to imitate. (5) A substantial building was erected as soon as possible, about half the money being contributed through the American committee. (6) All the current expenses of a foreign secretary, in charge was replaced by a native secretary as soon as one could be secured and trained. (The “secretary” corresponds to the “general manager” of a business concern.) Work was carried on in this manner in Japan, China, India, Madras, Korea, Philippines and Mexico as well as all over Europe. In many of these countries the Y. M. C. A. was said to be the turning-point in the lives of many of the men who afterwards ruled these countries. In praise of this work Theodore Roosevelt once said, “What I like about your work is that you mix religion with common sense.”

The Y. M. C. A. climbed upward until in 1913 in the American Association especially, nothing was left to chance. And by the business basis on which the Associations were run wonderful results were attained. A man entering a Y. M. C. A. was welcomed by a man at the door, and led by an instructor in exercises in the gymnasium, then instructed by a teacher in educational work. All of these teachers were and are today experts, as they have been trained for their special work. The educational department was for many years under the supervision of the educational secretary, Mr. George B. Hodge. There were and are many men trained to give courses on every conceivable subject from Bible study to ship-building. An employment department was established by which work is found for a great many men every year. The physical department is one of the most important, as it builds up men who are broken down physically and gives new life to loafers and drunkards. Dr. Welzmiller has done a great deal as a physical director and many men have been saved from failure or even suicide by him.

As to the social side of the Association, that which can be said, is that the spirit of the Y. M. C. A. is to be found in the fireside gatherings of young men where clean entertainment and home influences are free to all that will come. During the summer the Y. M. C. A. sends boys camping, and maintains schools and conferences where men are trained to become secretaries. Here they are taught to know men and learn how a man’s mind works, so that when they become secretaries they will be successful in getting a hold on men who come to the buildings. The value of the Y. M. C. A. in the large cities can hardly be estimated. Any strangers coming to the city can always find shelter and good influences.

In such a way the work has been going on until a great call came for more service to humanity—a call to the battle field. The Y. M. C. A. answered the call magnificently and acted immediately. A national War Work Council of Young Men’s Christian Association was formed with John R. Mott, LL.D. as general secretary, and Cleveland Dodge as treasurer. The American Y. M. C. A. had been doing work on the Mexican border, so they naturally began work in the training camps first. But soon the work was carried to Europe where the world’s committee of Young Men’s Christian Associations, with headquarters at Geneva, Switzerland, was also at work.

A little later the work had been so much developed that it could be said that the Y. M. C. A. went all the way. As an American boy got onto a train starting for a training camp, a Y. M. C. A. man handed him a folder telling about the Y. M. C. A. work in camp and giving a typical week’s program in camp, which included entertainments, classes in foreign languages, athletics, song services, social gatherings, informal talks and religious meetings. After while the future soldier who tired of reading and tired of the magazine, and then a Y. M. C. A. man again appeared—this time with writing material. After the boy had written a card home, another “Y” can came along and collected all the letters and cards on the train and went to mail them. In a little while the boy turned to see a “Y” man at his elbow ready for a little chat. Then he got all the boys in the car to sing, and so it went until the boy reached camp. He soon became accustomed to his new life, and wrote home on Y. M. C. A. stationery, and spent most of his time off duty at the Y. M. C. A. When the training in the camp was over, the soldier was moved to a seaport and here he found the Y. M. C. A. doing the same kind of work. On the transport the Y. M. C. A. secretary provided for the soldier’s needs in the same way and when he finally reached Europe, he found Y. M. C. A. buildings established in French villages doing the same work. In the “Y” dugouts in the trenches he could always get a cup of hot coffee and a biscuit. And when he came out of the trench immediate amusement in the red triangle hut diverted his mind until he could recover his poise.

When it was asked if victory was always on the side of the biggest battalions, a British staff officer answered that sometimes it was and sometimes it wasn’t. He went on to say that there was something else that determined a victory and that something else was what Napoleon called “morale.”

It is hard to define morale. It may be found in a cup of hot coffee or in merely writing a letter home, but in whatever way you wish to describe it, a fine definition for morale may be found in the four letters, Y. M. C. A.

The way in which this morale was furnished the soldiers by the Y. M. C. A. was by giving them recreation, amusement and good food. They were also given a place in which to write and to read books and magazines. In many places moving pictures were shown, and French and American actors, musicians, and entertainers of all sort gave their services to the soldiers. They were also given lectures and classes in foreign languages. The Y. M. C. A. also gave the boys real religion, and at the end of a hard day in the trenches they always made a rush for the Y. M. C. A. Motor-Truck Kitchen where they were strengthened by good food.

Another factor in keeping up the American soldier’s morale was the presence of American women. A great many women went to Europe offering their services as canteen workers. In these canteens, American women put on homelike touches which made the men and boys think of their own women at home. Luther Gulick has said, “I know of no force as effective in maintaining the fine ideals of life as the presence of wholesome, attractive, American women.”

Germany had nothing like the Y. M. C. A. in its army and its absence caused a great loss in the morale of its men. The “Y” kept up the morale of the men and helped them to win the war, but when the war was over its work was not ended, as there were thousands of soldiers ready to go back to their own countries, who had a great deal of leisure. So the Y. M. C. A. kept on with its work especially providing leave areas, recreation grounds, boat trips, sight-seeing excursions, and the like in different parts of France, England, Germany, and Italy. The Y. M. C. A. also went with the army of Occupation to Germany and this increased its work after the war.

The Y. M. C. A. could never have done the great work that it did, had it not been for the faithful work of its personnel. American men left their homes and their work to answer the call for Secretaries and chaplains. Such men as William Danforth, W. A. Shamklin, W. H. Crawford and William Lever tackled the job and as they say, “It was a job that called for resource, ingenuity, grit and courage.”

Due praise should also go to those who contributed morey so willingly to this work, both during the war and before. Helen Gould Shepard has been one of the greatest contributors to the cause of the Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. undoubtedly made mistakes during the war, but it never hesitated to tackle any job that it was asked to undertake, and it accomplished a vast work and deserves great praise.

The Young Men’s Christian Association is a mighty force for good in the lives of young men all over the world. It makes a home for many who are strangers; it gives them educational advantages; it builds up their health; gives them recreation and clean amusements; and gives them religion. In so much as it is doing all these things, it can rightly be called, “maker of men.”

YE PEDAGOGUES

The Facultae get restless
In the Middle of the year
It’s an annual epidemic
Which we greatly fear.
We must purchase rubber soles
And oil the seats that squeak
And wear our Sunday faces
And fold our hands, so meek (?)
When we traverse the halls
We go by aeroplane express;
If we linger to adjust our hats
They say “You must progress!”
They stand far back unseen,
And when we think the coast is clear
They jump out from everywhere
From corners far and near.
One symptom is the evening class
Of wicked little “should-be’s”
Whom the Facultae with patience (?) rare
Convert to little could-be’s.
What can we do to stop it?
We’re good as angels now
If they want us to be better
They’ll have to show us how!

ALGERNON CHESTERFIELD CONTEMPLATES SUICIDE

Mr. Algernon Chesterfield, alias Nonny, was exactly what you would expect him to be from his name—tall, angular, dressed in shabby but well-brushed clothes, with highly polished black oxford shoes and effeminate spats. A rather feeble-appearing chin, a tiny splotch of hair on his upper lip, and such large, gentle, appealing brown eyes that made you fairly expect him to say "Moo-ooo," gave him the look of utter helplessness.

In a cheap, East Side food-joint Algernon sat on this memorable evening. He was even more mournful than usual—O, why delay? You see, Algernon Chesterfield was in love! Hopelessly! And his girl had turned him down—"bounced" him! "What a desolate life," thought Nonny. No, life wasn't worth living. Then came the bright idea! Algernon Chesterfield would commit suicide! Yes he would.

Quickly his mind went over the various methods of executing oneself. Why not use a rope. Hang himself? Ugh, to think of hanging gave him a cold shiver and then, too, it would sadly dent his stiff collar. (Nonny only had one and when you're buried you always want a fresh collar on, Nonny decided.) But that was only one way. There must be others. Oh yes, he could shoot himself. Much pondering on that course brought him to the conclusion that there was a drawback—he didn't have a gun, moreover Nonny had his doubts as to his aim, he might miss himself and break a window. When he had broken his window once before the ensuing chat with the land-lady had not been very conducive to a second accident. Then there was poison. Nonny had heard from various sources that poison produced a bad taste in your mouth and if Algernon Chesterfield detested anything it was a bad taste. He'd have to think of a still different way. Vaguely he remembered of hearing and seeing in the papers accounts of people who had asphixiated themselves.

"Fine!" he thought, "that's the very thing." But—he had no gas.

"The river!" Why hadn't he thought of that before? Just the thing. At midnight sharp on the night following he would end all these earthly sorrows. He'd write a short note to his beloved saying she was the person to blame for it all, and he'd tell her, "Farewell forever, cruel one!" Yes, yes, he would make her feel terribly broken-hearted and—just then the pretty girl who lived near his rooming house came in and smiled at him. Suddenly Algernon Chesterfield decided that he didn't want to die—this world is a pretty good old place after all.

BIGGEST EVENT OF THE SEASON

WHelan-Van Winkle WEDDIN'

A beautiful homely weddin' wuz solemnized at the' farm o' Uncle Lester Whelan, wuz joined in holy wedlock with Mr. Rip Van Winkle. Miss Mildred Courtad, sister o' the bride, assisted, while Mr. Wendell Cleveland wuz by fer th' best man. The Laidlaw twins, Asia and Africa, scattered flower all over the fur the bride's dainty feet to be set on. Th' mantel piece, built durin' th' reign o' President Grant wuz banked with woodland flowers an' th' decorations elicited th' most favorable comments. The bride wore a heavy, brocaded watered silk dress which her mother wuz wedded in durin' th' battle o' Signal Mountains, th' jet ornaments on th' same havin' been brought across th' Allegheny Mountains by rugged pioneers, as wuz also th' heavy chiseled bracelet which adorned her shapely wrist. Altogether it wuz a happy coming o' romance an' history. Th' groom stod with his cauliflower ear t' th' walla n' wore a beautiful, becomin' two-piece suit of electric blue serge with two pair o' trousers. He looked ever inch a man, while ther wuz no doubt about th' lovely bride at his side. Some trouble wuz had findin' th' ring, but it finally turned up snugged away in th' groom's buttoned hip pocket where he'd put it fer safety. Rev. Elwin Hensen spoke th' words which increased Mr. Van Winkles responsibilities about seventy per cent. Rev. Hensen said he hoped th' young groom would shoulder his new burdens as cheerfully as he had shouldered a musket when his country conscripted him t' come t' its defense at Chateau Thierry. He praised th' courage o' th' groom in takin' a bride at a time when rents an' food were out o' sight an' th' face o' th' fact that he wuz not unionized. He added that it would require th' very strongest mutual attachment t' tide th' high cost o' livin'. "I've watched th' bride since childhood an' ther is not a lazy bone in her body," said Dr. Palman. Th' cake used for th' whites o' twenty-one eggs, breakin' all former weddin' cake records so far as known. Th' yolks o' th' same wuz utilized fer French toast which wuz much relished by those whose god fortune it wuz t' be in on th' weddin' super. Many costly presents, includin' a slab o' bacon, wuz received by th' happy couple. Th' bride is popular, an' for some years she has been th' millinery an' hair buyer fer th' Tribolet Five an' Ten Cent Store, from which establishment she has been temporarily loaned t' th' groom. Mr. Van Winkle is unsettled, but has a number o' things in view. He wuz formerly employed in th' Comfort brick yards, but th' army has broadened him an' he will probably organize. Th' happy pair departed fer th' East after supper amid a shower o' rice, most o' which wuz salvaged. Both have a chain o' relatives runnin' as fer east as Ridgeway, Michigan, an' 'll proceed by easy stages. They do not know where they'll be at home after their return, but expect t' work out some plan while absent.

LIFE OF FAMOUS POODLE
SAVED BY BRILLIANT YOUNG DOCTOR

New York, Feb. 26.—It is reported that Wilhelmina No. 509, 212 (the noted-poodle of Mile, Welma Nye, well-known movie star) is much better this morning. Little Wilhelmina has been suffering from an acute attack of fleagitus, and last night the case was critical. But due to the splendid effort of Julius Wellnitz, G.C., M.F., M.C., A.W., L.H., and Nurse Hardy the crisis was safely passed. Yes-
TECUMSEH ASTONISHER

Everday several other doctors were called in consultation and each declared the case hopeless, but Dr. Wellnitz never gave up, and spared neither himself nor his nurses in their efforts. This morning Wilhelmina was able to wag her tail, and Dr. Wellnitz said he felt confident that in a few months Wilhelmina would be fully recovered.

The rise of Dr. Wellnitz in the medical world has been spectacular, and he is to be counted as one of the country’s prominent young physicians.

Wilhelmina is the most valuable dog in the United States, Mlle. Nye having recently refused an offer of $50 for her. —Taken from “The New York Sun.”

Many Tecumseh Friends will be glad to hear of the success of Dr. Wellnitz. Dr. Wellnitz, Nurse Hardy and Mlle. Nye are all graduates of Tecumseh High School. Dr. Wellnitz also graduated from the Raisin Valley Seminary and U. of M., afterwards taking post-graduate work at Harvard West Point and Adrian.

His class-mates say that he showed a keen medical mind and quick understanding even in High School as he remarked on a day in French class that an operating room was “the place where death took the place of life.”

The “Astonisher” wishes Dr. Wellnitz even greater success in the future.

WONDERFUL AVIATION
FEAT ACCOMPLISHED

Globe Circumnavigated by Daring Airman Will go Down in History as Parallel to Ferdinand Magellan’s First Man to Circumnavigate the Globe. Date, Feb. 28.

The most spectacular aeroplane flight of the ages was completed yesterday, when Sidney Hall brought his mammoth biplane to rest at the new T. H. S. aviation field at Tecumseh, after successfully circumnavigating the globe. This flight was accomplished in 7 days, 8 hours, 17 minutes, as he started on April 1 at 8:17 o’clock P. M. and lighted on the field just as the chime clock struck twelve last night.

Great crowds gathered at the field as soon as the fact was known to welcome Sir Sidney. People came from far and near, some coming from Brit’ton, Clinton, Macon, Ridgeway, Holloway, Tip-ton, and some even coming from Newburg.

The plane used was “The Le- rore,” invented by Gibson & Dav’dson managers of the Aeronautical Syndicate and was an enlarged and improved type of the Wright biplane. The plane was equipped with all the modern conveniences and was driven by two Liberty n’ors, 1000 H. P. each.

This is the greatest feat yet accomplished in the realm of aircraft, and Mr. Hall is counted one of the most daring and adventurous of airmen.

This adventure will go into history as parallel to Magellan and other great adventurers. As Magellan’s voyage showed the world what was possible on the sea, so Mr. Hall’s flight shows the world what is possible in the air.

EVERYBODY COME!

NEW SUBSTITUTE FOR COAL

Russell Abbott, formerly of Tecumseh, has suddenly stepped into the limelight as the inventor of a new process of heating. He has perfected a method of extracting heat from bee stings and condensing it into cubes which can be used in place of coal, thus forming a much cheaper fuel. This wonderful invention will prove a great benefit to coming generations when the supply of coal will have been exhausted. A company has been incorporated, and Messrs. Price and McNeil are heavy stockholders.

CLASS REUNION

Plans are being made for a reunion of the class of '21 to be held next June. This is to be a very sumptuous affair beginning June 8 and extending through June 10. The members of the class from away plan to arrive at Ridgeway at about the same time and a special train, namely the D. T. & I. milk train, has been secured to convey the guests from there. The car has been beautifully upholstered in red and yellow, and the milk cars have all been provided with new comfort cushions.

The evening of the eighth there will be a good old time weenie roast at the Comfort brick yard. The weenies will be prepared by roasting in the kilns, and the rest of the delightful feast will be served in the spacious drying sheds. After the supper the class will transfer itself to the Tipton K. P. Hall (bill payable 7 years after date) and enjoy a dance.

On the ninth there will be an all day picnic at Wampler's Lake, the transportation being made by aeroplane whose services the Aeronautical Syndicate have kindly consented to donate to the class. Sidney Hall will give exhibition flights including the chin slip and heel spin. Miss Wimple will go as chaperone, and the girls of the Junior class have been engaged to take care of the kiddies.

On the evening of the ninth, the class will attend the commencement exercises in a body; the main floor of the Opera House will be reserved for them. Rev. Elywn Hensen will deliver the commencement address.

On the evening of the tenth the class will attend the alumni banquet. The '21ers will be the first in the bread line to the soup bowl, the soup being eaten through the new bamboo soup poles recently invented by Ralph Comfort.

Notable personages who will attend are Messrs. E. E. Crampton and C. W. Price and family. Mr. Price will be given a special reception by the members of his old evening Physics class.

Russell Abbott and Mrs. Rip Van Winkle are the chairmen of the committee.

One reason for the elaborate program is to spend the money that has been accumulating in the class treasury. The class graduated eleven years ago with fifty cents in its treasury which was promptly invested by Lester Elwood. The treasury now contains an amount of $20,000 which is regarded as a menacing danger in its temptation to extravagance. After the expenditures of the reunion are deducted, the class will present one third of the remainder to Tecumseh High School, one third, with sympathy, to the "Institution for Blockheads and Other Incurables," and one-third will be left in the treasury.

A good time is in store for you, Members of the class of '21, don't forget the dates, June 8, 9, 10!

Social Events
SENIOR RECEPTION

Wampler’s Lake was the rendez-vous of the Seniors and Juniors at the reception given the latter by the Seniors May 25, 1920. Leaving the school house early in the afternoon, the guests were conveyed to the Lake in autos. Arriving at the lake they were left to their own amusement. The freedom of the lake and the surrounding attractions was extended to them by the hospitable Seniors. Some indulged in boating, some in bathing, others in walking or bowling.

When the supper hour arrived all were on hand and did ample justice to the picnic supper provided them.

Sunburned and mosquito-bitten they set out for home, tired but very happy, expressing their gratitude to the Seniors for their delightful outing.

THE “GYM” PARTY

Something novel in the way of parties was given by Miss Holmberg, assisted by the Physical Training classes, November 18, 1920. The lady teachers and wives of the members of the School Board were the honored guests.

The girls all went dressed in their middies and bloomers prepared to have a good time, and judging by the sounds which issued from the Temple of Learning, which was temporarily peopled by some two hundred members of the gentler sex who are prone to all talk at once, their desire was being realized. In fact it was reported that a man living in the outskirts of Adrian phoned to Tecumseh Central and asked if a baseball game was being played by moonlight.

After watching several relays, including the Duck Waddle and the Kiddie Kar relay, which were very mirth provoking, the guests participated in a Grand March led by the Misses Noggle and Donaldson. As they marched past the end of the Gym, popcorn balls and overgrown sticks of candy were given them.

Miss Holmberg received many compliments on the success of the entertainment and the evening was ended by the singing of “Home Sweet Home”—berg.

THE CHRISTMAS PARTY

The annual Christmas party held in the High School Gymnasium Thursday evening, December 23, 1920, was, like its predecessors, a brilliant affair and one of the social events of the season.

The place was beautifully decorated with festoons of pine needles suspended from the balcony, and with streamers of red and green crepe paper; and colored lights lent a soft glow to the scene.

The orchestra pavilion was situated at the south end of the gymnasium, thus giving unbroken floor space to the dancers. The music was furnished by Bracy’s Orchestra. One of the most popular resorts was that occupied by the punch bowl at one end of the gym.

Over one hundred couples participated in the dancing, and “a splendid time” was the verdict of all.

BASKET BALL BANQUET

The Senior Class entertained the Olivet and Hudson teams both boys and girls, the Tecumseh teams being included, with a banquet after the game Friday, February 18, 1921. As the High School colors of the four teams were orange and black, the domestic art room in which the tables were laid was decorated with these colors. The tables were arranged in the shape of a T. The spreads were under the direct supervision of Miss Alice Whelan, and were both dainty and appetizing. The visiting teams were given a general good time.
THE BASEBALL BANQUET

One of the events of the Baseball team for the year of 1920 was an entertainment which was given at the home of the Captain, LaRoy Van Winkle.

The scene of this occasion was the front porch which was decorated in the High School colors, orange and black. Jack-O-Lanterns were used to light the porch. Above the door was printed the sign "Welcome," which was not really needed as all knew they were most cordially welcomed.

Covers were laid for sixteen, each table having for its centerpiece a baseball. During the supper hour a victrola entertained the guests. After the supper a very entertaining program was given which was as follows:

Toastmaster...........................................O. W. Laidlaw
"Before the Game"..................................C. W. Price
"Batteries"............................................Mr. Bricker (Umpire)
"After Fifth Inning".................................Rip Van Winkle (Cap't)
"Final Score"..........................................Mr. Crampton (Coach)

After this splendid program Mr. Crampton gave out the T's to
Sam Sisson, Third Base Lawrence Harrington, Short Stop
Harold Sisson, Second Base Leslie Abbott, Right Field
Homer Hanham, First Base Elwyn Hensen, Center Field
LaRoy Van Winkle, Catcher Bert Ousterhout, Left Field
Glenn Crittenden, Pitcher Robert Collins, Sub. Pitcher
LaRoy Van Winkle was elected captain for 1921.

As the captain for basket-ball had not been elected yet, and as practically the same boys who played on the base-ball team played on the basket-ball team, Mr. Price then had the boys elect the new Captain for the next year, Sam Sisson being chosen.

FOOTBALL BANQUET—T. H. S. AND CLINTON

The Tecumseh High School grid iron lads and the Clinton boys were invited to a banquet furnished by the Clinton American Legion on the following Tuesday after the big Thanksgiving game at Clinton. Tecumseh won the game 7 to 0, but Clinton said they would give us a stiff battle eating oysters.

The night of the feed the boys of the team drove to Clinton in cars, and thoroughly enjoyed the banquet which the American Legion had furnished. After the supper was over both teams cheered for the "eats" they had received. Mr. McNeil gave a very enjoyable talk, thanking the Clintonians for their sportmanship. Then Mr. Cory of Clinton, gave a farewell talk to the teams.

Yea! Clinton! Yea!

JUNIOR PLAY

"YOU’D BE SURPRISED"

The reputation of Tecumseh High School for excellent dramatic talent was again upheld by the Junior Class in the play "You'd Be Surprised" which was presented February 16 and 17 to large audiences in the High School Auditorium.

Story of Play

A quiet New England village is all a'roar over the arrival of a pair of fortune hunters, claiming to be titled foreigners, who scheme to get possession of Mary's millions. Their wily efforts to gain control of the fortune set into action the age-old conflict between crafty sophistication and rugged honesty and starts a rapid train of complications.
That evening Jack Henderson is accused of the crime by the Ouija board. In the rural court room two days later the shrewd but easy going constable out-wits the fortune hunters and clears Jack of all guilt.

Plot of Play

John Driscoll, the Irish rebel leader generally known as "Captain Jack," has a pretty sister, Aline, who wins the heart of Captain Edward Gordon of the English troops, when he is sent to Ireland to suppress the rebellion and capture Captain Jack. Gordon is ignorant of the fact that John Driscoll, his old college chum, is the rebel leader. When he learns of his identity, he resigns from the English army, because of his sympathy for the Irish cause and his love for Aline. Lieutenant Rogers replaces him. In the mean time Squire Shannon, who has long been in love with Aline, plans to win her by securing evidence against her brother. Through the agency of Teddy Burke, a spy, he succeeds in having Captain Jack sentenced to death. As the Squire hoped, Aline comes to beg for her brother’s life and the Squire promises to free him only on condition that she marry him. She refuses, and Edward Gordon rescues her from being imprisoned by the Squire. Nellie Shannon, the Squire’s daughter, turns traitor to her father on account of her love for John Driscoll who once saved her life.

Barney Donovan, “a sprig of the old sod,” and a faithful follower, frees Captain Jack and they escape. Captain Jack goes to the home of Nellie Shannon to declare his love for her. While he is there, the English soldiers, summoned by Squire Shannon, arrive on the scene. Nellie hides her lover, and for the time being is safe, though her father suspects her. At her own home the rebel leader is later recaptured however, and is again in danger of death, when Captain Gordon, who has gone to Dublin for the purpose, rides up with a pardon from the Governor. The play ends with predicted marriages of Captain Jack and Nellie, Captain Gordon and Aline, and Barney Donovan and his sweetheart, Kate Kelly, a character who furnished a good deal of humor and wit throughout the play.

“I’m sorry that my engagements prevent my attending your Lecture Course, I shall be with you in spirit.”

George Deery (who is selling Lecture Course tickets)—“Splendid; and where would you like your spirit to sit? I have tickets for one, seventy-five, and two dollars.”

“A burned child dreads the fire,” announced the teacher during a lesson on proverbs. “Now, give me a sentence different in wording but meaning the same thing.”

A grimy hand shot up from the back of the class. “Please, teacher,” came a small voice, “A washed child dreads the water.”

Tenderfoot:—“Say Harold, did you know that I had a new job?”
First Class Scout:—“No what is it?”
Tenderfoot:—“Oh, I’m blacksmith down to the candy kitchen.”
First Class Scout:—“I don’t understand you, what do you mean?”
Tenderfoot:—“Just what I said. I shoo flies.”

The Tecumseh High School had a very successful season in football this year, and its team has won many honors in the county. The honors came when the team went to Blissfield. They lost the game 34 to 0, but later Mr. Crampton received word from Mr. Paige stating he was pleased with the manners the Tecumseh High School team showed while in Blissfield. “Tecumseh lost the game, but won.” They were sportsmen in every game.

Later in the season the T. H. S. team defeated Clinton 7 to 0 by a lone touch down and goal. The touch down was made by Bert Ousterhout, our famous full back. After the game the Clinton coach, Mr. Cory, told the T. H. S. team they had won the game fair and square, and that the team had played clean. He at once invited the team to attend their banquet, which they did the following Tuesday night. “Yea, Clinton, Yea,”—we have won friendship of your school.

The Tecumseh High School received honors by trimming Hudson 20 to 6—the first time in any sport in the past six years.

Our Coach

The team of the T. H. S. wishes to take this space in the “Senior Echoes,” to thank our Coach, Mr. Earl McNeil, for his discipline and work with the team. He would never have the team do what he himself wouldn’t do. The big word he usually used between halves was “FIGHT.”

We can not consider the boys basketball season a failure, even though we acquired the small end of nearly every score. For those members of the team who did the best they knew how we have nothing but praise. "You can not draw blood from a turnip." Neither can an efficient basketball team be made of green men who have had practically no experience. We trust the future generation will see the necessity of long continued work to bring about real efficiency, and may they profit by the experience of the 1921 team.

BASKETBALL OF 1920 AND 1921

The Basketball team of 1920 had a perfect record, so it was up to the team of 1921 to do some hard work if they were to come up to the expectations of the Tecumseh "fans."

The first game was played with the Alumni, and with Cecil Clark and Helen McIntyre in the line up for the team of '20 no one was surprised that they pushed the team of '21 to play their best ball in order to win from them, which they did, the score being 24-11.

The first game of the schedule was played on the home floor on January 14 with Saline. It was an easy victory, as the score of 60-3 will show.

On January 21 our team traveled to Hillsdale and played the High School Six there. Our team won by a score of 39-3, but it was a hard game, chiefly because it was rough.

The next game on January 28 was with Coldwater on the Tecumseh floor. If the Coldwater team had had a little more team work, our girls would have had more difficulty in running up such a score as they did, the score being 32-3.

The next game was a "walkoff" for Tecumseh. It was played at Morenci on February 4, the score being 57-3.

On February 11, our big games started. First at Battle Creek. The Battle Creek girls have played an excellent game of Basketball for several years and our team of last year won from them by two points. Through the first half the Battle Creek girls put up a good fight, but when our girls went back the second half they demonstrated to the Battle Creek people what a game of real Basketball was. Our team won by a score of 40-22. Tecumseh was well represented by a large crowd of people who went up to see the game.

On February 18, Olivet came here, and pushed our team hard in order for our girls to win. The final score was 57-20.

The next game was with East Lansing. On February 25, our team met with the fast East Lansing six. Our team was not out-classed in every way as has been said, and our girls put up a good fight, though they were beaten by East Lansing by a score of 65-18.

The game with Saline on March 4 was won by a score of 20-18.

Our team was to play the Morenci girls on March 11, but the Morenci team cancelled the game, and our team took on the Birmingham team. It is sure to be a good game, and we hope that our girls will win. They have just the two games to play, the one with Birmingham and one with Olivet at Olivet on March 18.

A great deal of the teams victories is due to the excellent support given them by the people of Tecumseh.

The Tecumseh High School baseball prospects are brighter for 1921 than they were for 1920. The county is divided into two sections, north and south. T. H. S. won out on this side of the county last year, but one pitcher was compelled to pitch three games in succession before the “Field day contest.”

Blissfield defeated Tecumseh 7 to 1 after the two teams had a duel of six innings, 0 to 0.

The T. H. S. lost three valuable men by graduation. They are Homer Hanham, Harold Sisson and Leslie Abbott. But their positions will be well taken care of by the new material which has come in this year. Most promising among the new men are Earl Pennington and Leland Randall, who will strengthen the team, it is expected. The High School has a good reserve list.

Jokes
Soph:—"Do they have the 4th of July in France?"
Fresh:—"No, that's only for Americans."
Soph:—"Then what comes between the 3rd and the 5th?"

The Physics and English classes are deep in the mysteries of heat. (The latter are studying "Paradise Lost.")

Miss Donaldson (English XII)—"Who is your favorite author?"
Miss Field:—"My father."
Miss Donaldson:—"What did he ever write?"
Miss Field:—"Checks."

Miss Borgards (U. S. History):—"Where was the Declaration of Independence signed?"
W. Cleveland:—"At the bottom."

The Sophomore saw a patch of green,
They thought it was a Freshman class;
But when they closer to it drew,
They saw—it was a looking glass.

Miss Donaldson (English):—"Why did the three witches put the snake teeth, dragon scales, and baboon’s blood in their cauldron?"
Chemistry Student:—"I guess they were preparing ammonia."

The fair modiste, Miss Ernestine,
Supports herself with her sewing machine,
With plaiting, tucking, frilling and all,
She pleases the ladies, both short and tall.

The Terrors of English
If an’ S and a’ I and an’ O and a’ u
With an X at the end spell Su,
And an’ E and a Y and a E spell I
Pray what is a speller to do?
Then also if an’ S and an’ I and a G
And an’ H. E. D, spell side,
There’s nothing much left for a feller to do,
But go commit siouxsieeyesighed.

Dale:—"Did you see Dorothy knitting in class today?"
Adine:—"No what was she knitting?"
Dale:—"Her brows."

Miss Russell:—"John, where was Washington’s Farewell Address?"
John Bell:—"Heaven."

Mr. Price:—"You should spend twice as much time on your lesson, Orr."
Bob Orr (In stage whisper):—"Two times zero equals zero."

How much happier we would be if Noah had swatted two flies!

Miss Noggle (Bookkeeping):—"How can you classify a telephone operator? Is her’s a business or a profession?"
Miss Nye:—"Neither; it’s a calling."

My hearts so full of love today,
For all my fellowmen,
I’d gladly knock some fellow down;
To help him up again.
HEARTEASE

Two hearts with love's young dream aflame,
But Oh, how wondrous sad.
When he asked the maid to change her name
She sent him to her dad.

FIRST DAY AFTER CHRISTMAS VACATION

Miss Noggle:—"Starting out again with such a low mark."
Mr. Orr:—"Why this is the first time I've flunked in a week." (Naturally.)

St. Peter (at the Gate):—"Who goes there?"
Voice outside:—"It's me!"
St. Peter:—"Come in."
St. Peter (again):—"Who goes there?"
Another voice:—"It is I."
St. Peter:—"Stay out, another one of those confounded school teachers."
(We think Mr. Price is going to get in safely, don't you?)

Absence makes the marks grow rounder.

Joey:—"I wonder if Mr. Crampton meant anything by giving me a ticket to the lecture on 'Fools'?"
Abe:—"Why?"
Joey:—"It says 'Admit one'."

J. Ogden (one noon):—"Say, what do you think you are anyway?"
Norman Long:—"Why, I'm the boob that put the see in Senior, the Jew in Junior, the more in Sophomore, and the fresh in Freshman. Anything else I can do for you?"
J. Ogden:—"Yes, you can put the do in skidoo."

There was a young girl named Miss Hardy, Who prided herself on not being tardy,
One day she put on airs; an' fell down the stairs
An' it sure knocked the breath out of Miss Hardy.

In Physics class: Mr. Price:—"If I should take this little ball and go up in the air, I would find there was absolutely nothing there." Whether you agree with him or not is a matter of personal opinion, of course.

He:—"What would you think if I threw a kiss at you?"
She:—"I'd think you were lazy."
LAST YEARS CHEMISTRY CLASS

Gertrude Turner read that one molecule of potassium iodine (KI) added to two molecules of sulphur (SS) will unite making a slight sound but no violent explosion (KISS). We wondered? Someone said —"Let's ask the instructor."

YOUnger Days—

Mrs. Waring to Archie:—"Archie you ought to be ashamed of yourself. You should be an example for the younger children."

Archie:—"No mother, Malcolm is the example, and I'm the problem."

Do we all agree? ??

Bats in His Belfry

Teacher in Eng. (2):—"Correct this, 'While playing in the attic a hornet stung me'."

D. I.:—"While playing, a hornet stung me in the attic."

Diner:—"Is there any soup on the bill of fare?"

Waiter:—"There was, sir, but I wiped it off."

Leola:—"Did your mother ask you what time you came in?"

Julius:—"Yes. I told her a quarter of twelve."

Leola:—"But it was after one when we left the place."

Julius:—"Well, a quarter of twelve is three isn't it?"

Crit:—"What do you think of my new russet shoes?"

Rip:—"They're immense."

Why Professors go "Buu-sss"—A student in Zoology pinned together a grasshopper's head, a cricket's body and a butterfly's tail. To fool his professor he asked:—"What kind of a bug is this?"

Prof:—"Did it make a humming sound when you picked it up?"

Student:—"Yes."

Prof:—"Then it must be a humbug."

Dorothy's mother had cautioned her about eating too much when she was invited out. One day the little girl was visiting a rather cross old aunt, and after she had asked three times for more dessert the aunt exclaimed, "My goodness, child, you do certainly eat an awful lot for a small girl."

"Well. Aunt Grace," replied Dorothy somewhat conscience-stricken, "Maybe I'm not as little as I look from the outside."

Blinks—The undercrust to that chicken pie you brought me was abominably tough.

Waiter:—"There wasn't any undercrust to the pie, sir. It was served on a paper plate.
