SALUTATORY

Elizabeth Kidman

Naomi Frost

We welcome you dear parents, teachers, and friends to this last gathering of the class of nineteen hundred thirty two. I am sure that a deep feeling of gratitude is present in the hearts of each fellow classmate for the kind services and sacrifices you have given us during the last four years of our High School career.

Let us picture our High School days as a baseball game. Our teachers are our umpires and direct us as we meet each play. The spectators from behind are always cheering and urging us on, they are our parents and friends.

Now that we are Freshmen we are ready to start the game. At first we make a great many errors for as yet we have not learned all of the rules. Nevertheless, we work eagerly onward until we reach first base—the end of our Freshmen year.

As we strive to reach second base, our Sophomore year, a new awakening comes to us. We suddenly realize the many duties with which we are confronted and the added responsibilities to which we react. We become more thoughtful and considerate of our High School career and what it will bring to us.

With the view of third base in sight a much more brighter future appears. Nearing the end of our Junior year, our pleasures are doubled and although they are mingled with some sorrows we still keep that everlasting spirit with us and look eagerly forward to the next base—our Senior year.

Cautiously waiting and watching our chance to reach our last base, our Graduation, we become excited with the many activities and the suspense of attaining home plate—our goal. We realize that this year will be our last one together and that a new future awaits us.

As we are assembled here tonight, perhaps for the last time, our hearts are filled with joy to think that we have won and yet with sadness to think of the separation so near at hand. But as we have worked together for the past four years, we have found the truth of our motto, "Nothing is achieved without effort."

CLASS HISTORY

Anna Hamilton

Helen Leighton

On September 6, 1928, we, as Freshmen, rushed to the aviation field where we found many planes waiting to be used in our flight through High School. There were seventy-eight of us enrolled in our first year of ground-school training, very eager to learn about planes with which we were to make our journey.

After we had become acquainted with our teachers and classmates we chose as our pilots: Thomas Hamilton, Robert Hanna, Burris Walters, and Wilson Haight. We also selected Miss Kellogg as our aviatrix to pilot us through the hardships which we were to encounter.

We had numerous social affairs during the year but the most enjoyable was a Hallowe'en Party which was given in honor of Miss Kellogg.

We ended our Freshmen year by taking a flight over the beautiful Irish Hills and finally making a landing at Sand Lake where we spent the day which we now recall with much pleasure.

On September 3, 1929, we were back at the field anxious to continue our flight through another year of school work.

We held our first class meeting and chose as our pilots: Robert Hanna, Walter Morden, Harold Moon, and Naomi Frost with Miss Brothwell as our aviatrix. Helen Leighton was chosen as a delegate to the Student Council of Aviation.

In November we flew to Sand Lake where we spent a most enjoyable evening at the Sager cottage.

We were greatly honored this year by serving at the Junior-Senior Reception.

Then came examinations to determine how much we had learned of the mechanism of planes. After this ordeal we again took flight and made a successful landing at Sand Lake, where we held our final picnic.

In September of 1930 the class again assembled at the field for further instruction. Some old members were missing but a few new recruits had joined our ranks.

The first major problem that again confronted us was the election of pilots and this time great responsibilities were entrusted to Naomi Frost, Wilson Haight, Glenna Grigg and Abraham Hodge with Miss Morlock as our aviatrix. Lorraine Herring was sent to represent us at the Student Council.

We made several flights throughout the year but the most outstanding was the one made to Vineyard Lake where we spent a pleasant evening at the Puffer cottage.

Our Junior play, "Whimsey", was presented April 17, and on May 22 the Junior-Senior Reception was held. The gymnasium was transformed into a lovely flower garden, and Perry's orchestra furnished music for dancing.

Our final flight this year took us to Wampler's Lake where we held our Junior picnic.

In September, 1931, we as Seniors began our last flight toward Graduation, the goal which we have been striving diligently to reach.

Our pilots this year have been Abraham Hodge, Harold Daisher, Charles Buck and Helen Leighton with Miss Morlock as our aviatrix. We again chose Lorraine Herring as a delegate to the Student Council.

In December we were chosen to decorate the gymnasium for the annual Christmas Party.

The Senior play, "It Happened in Hollywood", was given with much credit to the cast and our directors, Miss Morlock and Miss Stephens.

We have worked faithfully together on this last lap of our school career and now each must make his solo flight.

How frightened we are to realize that now we are about to soar away to unknown lands and to encounter new and thrilling experiences. But our class motto, "Nothing is achieved without effort", gives us courage to fly higher and higher until we have attained the greatest possible altitude.

GIFTATORY

Maxine Daisher

Robert Hanna

Leslie Aebersold—certificate.

We are giving this certificate of editorship to Leslie because he has proven his ability as editor of our annual.

Marion Bock—Ford car.

To Marion we give this Ford so she can come back from Ypsi to visit us.

Virginia Brazee—box of crayons.

To Virginia we present this box of crayons, hoping it will be of use to her in making a mark in the world.

William Britton—davenport.

We know Bill is what you would call a lover of comfort so here is a small davenport.

Charles Buck—fish pole and hook.

We give this fish pole and hook to Charley, wishing you lots of luck in landing a real one.

Dean Cook—3 cards.

We have prepared for Dean 3 post cards on which we have written his three characteristics: Attention, Energy and Ambition.

Hearold Coates—sponge.

To give Hearold a sponge to absorb his laughter.

Charles Cox—sheep.

We give Charles Cox this little sheep. We hope this will be useful in his future business.

Irene Craig—man doll.

And here is Irene, to whom we give this man doll, because, as everyone knows, she would worship a man more than anything else.

Harold Daisher—ticket.

To Harold we take great pleasure in presenting this free ticket to Texas, hoping this will be of some help in reaching your college.

Maxine Daisher—bottle of Peroxide.

To Maxine we give this bottle of Peroxide and hope that she will not always be a brunette.

Margaret Dove—nurse's kit.

As we have learned that Margaret wishes to be a nurse we think it is very appropriate to present her with a nurse's kit to aid her in her profession.

Maurice Feight—book.

To Maurice we give this book on "How To Play Baseball."

Naomi Frost—bug.

We know Naomi is fond of "Bugs and Bugbee's and more Bugs" so we give her this little bug.

Clayton Greenwald—stay put.

To Clayton we give this "Stay put" to conquer his unruly hair.

Glenna Grigg—Graham car.

To Glenna we give this Graham car so she and Clarence can take these moonlight rides.

Walter Hall—ambition powder.

To Walter Hall the class presents some ambition powder which he has so successfully avoided during the past few years of High School.

Anna Hamilton—rolling pin.

We give Anna this rolling pin for her future needs and we also want to give sincere warning to Elwin.

Thomas Hamilton—book.

To Thomas Hamilton we present this book on "Good Salesmanship."

Robert Hanna—pamphlet.

To Bob we present this little pamphlet, "The Latest Ways and Means in Bluffing." Hope he can use it to bluff his way through life as he has in T. H. S.

Martha Hand—freckle cream.

In spite of the fact that freckles portray good nature and good fellowship we venture to give Martha Hand this freckle cream because we know that the freckles are not lasting while the good nature and good fellowship is.

Wilson Haight—Palmolive soap.

To Wilson Haight we give this bar of Palmolive soap. Keep that school girl complexion, Bill.

Lorraine Herring—piano.

We take pleasure in presenting this piano to Lorraine because we know it will win her much fame.

Abram Hodge—candle.

To Abe we give this candle so it will light his way down Kilbuck Street.

Lillian Jackson—Latin book.

We give Lillian another Latin book, hoping she will continue the good work as she has in High School.

Bessie Kozel—dance ticket.

We give Bessie this dance ticket because she is always in need of one.

Elizabeth Kidman—hair pins.

The class would like to give this little gift to Elizabeth. We hope these hair pins will help her in dressing her hair.

Neomi Kuhl—diamond ring.

To Neomi we give this diamond to match the other which she has been wearing around. Helen Leighton—office stool.

We give Helen this little office stool as we know she will always have a need for one.

Marguerite Leonhardt—title to plot of land.

We present Marguerite with this title to a plot of land in Michigan so she can build her large hospital.

Christine Miller—bandana handkerchief.

To Christine we give this handkerchief so she can join the follies.

Harold Moon—mule.

The class of '32 presents Harold with this mule. Hope it doesn't turn out to be the kicker that he was.

Walter Morden—castle.

To "Doc" we give this castle, because we all know he is very fond of Temples.

Margaret Pennington—cook book.

To Margaret, our Domestic Science student, we give this book on cooking, thinking it will come in handy in future, if not now.

Helen Pinkerman—rose bud.

To Helen we take pleasure in presenting this rose bud. We have noticed her fondness of Bud.

Raymond Puffer—"A".

To Raymond we give this big "A" to add to those he collected in T. H. S.

Frank Robinette—red pepper.

Here is a dash of red pepper for Frank to pep him up a little.

Aileen Roff—bright handkerchief.

As Aileen has a liking for bright colors we have done our best in selecting this for her.

Richard Sager—motor boat.

To Richard we give this model motor boat because we know some day he will be a great ship builder.

Glenn Simmerson—horn.

To Glenn we give a horn so the quiet little boy will be able to make plenty of noise from now on.

Erma Van Valkenburg—book.

As Erma has been inquiring so much about what we were going to give her we present her with this book entitled: "Don't Be So Inquisitive."

Alyce Van Vleet—foot stool.

Alyce, here is a little foot stool in case you get a short man.

Lloyd Wagner—pamphlet.

Lloyd hasn't much of an idea of what he is going to do when he leaves here, so here are a few suggestions.

Lawrence Williams—chicken.

To Lawrence we give this chicken. We want to inform you that this is the best species for your poultry business.

Mildred Wright—book of Latin.

To Mildred we give this book of Latin so she will be well versed on how Wesley Erlenbush will Caesar.

William Wright—pacifier.

We give a pacifier to "Gus" to keep him from making so much noise.

SENIOR PROPHECY

Marguerite Leonhardt

Harold Daisher

Scene: Hotel Chief.

Time: June, 1952.

Harold (entering lobby with a Tecumseh Herald in his hand. Sees Marguerite seated in a chair): "Pardon me, but have you seen the paper today?"

Marguerite: "No. What does it say about the Alumni Banquet?"

Harold: "In the 20 years ago column it reads: 'The Senior Class experienced some anxiety as to the possibilities of publishing an annual, so each one promised to return 20 years later for a reunion to see the change and progress of each member.'"

Marguerite: "Do you remember the day we were given the assignment of the prophecy and what a nerve-racking time we experienced the day it was supposed to be handed into Glenna Grigg?"

Harold: "Yes, I do; and it would have been easier if we could have foreseen the change we saw the other night at the banquet."

Marguerite: "Yes, I agree with you. And when I saw Dr. William Wright I immediately thought of our sociology class and Bill's question of inheriting a bald head at 30."

Harold (laughing): "For old-time's sake let's read today's news together."

Marguerite (laughing): "Fine! But remember we are married people now and if your son saw his dignified father, the famous writer, he would be very much surprised."

Harold: "True, I admit. Well, here is what today's news says about the banquet: 'Quite a change has taken place in the 1932 class and a big reunion was enjoyed. Tecumseh is indeed very proud of this class because of its versatility. Among those present were: Mr. Wilson Haight, Detroit's great criminal lawyer.'"

Marguerite: "Mr. Abraham Hodge of New York, the great chemist, is responsible for our new chemistry books now in use."

"Coach Harold Moon from the University of Southern California, who is turning out the best punters of the colleges. Remember what a great kicker he was in school?"

"Neoma Kuhl, the belle of the Montana cow-girls."

Harold: "Mrs. Wesley Erlenbush, nee Mildred Wright."

" 'Lloyd Wagner, who just completed the first non-stop flight around the world.'

" 'Glenn Simerson, the retired lightweight boxing champion.' "

Marguerite: " 'Dean Cook, the warden of Jackson Prison. He said he would get there some time.'

" 'Irene Craig, a reporter for the Tecumseh Herald. She began her career in the Senior play.'

" 'Mrs. Orville Gove, nee Lillian Jackson.' "

Harold: " 'Thomas Hamilton, vice-president of the C. F. Smith Co.'

" 'Frank Robinette, who is still looking for his life's ambition.'

" 'Richard Sager, a second "Gar Wood." ' "

Marguerite: " 'Clayton Greenwald, a government machinist.'

" 'Chas Buck, a noted poet.'

" 'Dr. Walter Morden of Macon.' "

Harold: " 'Miss Elizabeth Kidman, a noted toe dancer and impersonator from Chicago. Leslie Aebersold, who replaced Mr. Bramble on the Grange Executive Committee at Lansing.'

" 'Mrs. Elwyn Bugbee, once Naomi Frost.' "

Marguerite: " 'Miss Aileen Roff, whose orchestra is enjoying the popularity that Rudy Valee's once possessed.'

" 'Maurice Feight, coach at the U. of M.'

" 'Maxine Daisher, a beauty specialist, who has replaced Max Factor.' "

Harold: " 'Raymond Puffer, a modernistic designer for GE.'

" 'Charles Cox, manager of Henry Ford's project started when Charles was a Senior in T. H. S.'

" 'Anna Hamilton put on the ball and chain and became a Murphy.'

" 'Erma Van Valkenburg and her husband, who are operating a dairy farm near Adrian.'

" 'Lawrence Williams, who has become a successful farmer.'

" 'Helen Leighton, who is now a mathematics instructor in T. H. S.' "

Harold: " 'Glenna Grigg of the Metropolitan Opera Co., accompanied by Lorraine Herring, who is a great concert pianist, rendered a few selections.'

" 'Marion Bock, an instructor in the Detroit Business College.' "

Marguerite: " 'Martha Hand, the hostess of the Clintonian Hotel in Clinton, the largest city in Lenawee County.'

" 'Helen Pinkerman, a teacher in the new pre-primary school just built in Tecumseh.'

" 'Margaret Pennington, who has replaced Polly Mattis as caterist.' "

Harold: " 'Alyce Van Vleet is enjoying the popularity of the once famous Joan Crawford.'

" 'Virginia Brazee, the bachelor girl of Tecumseh. No fellow has been able to hook her yet.'

" 'Harold Coates, who is now a minister. Remember how he could lecture in T. H. S.' "

Marguerite: " 'Margaret Dove, Manager of the Tecumseh store of the Tribolet's 5 and 10c stores.'

" 'Walter Hall, who reports for work like he used to in T. H. S.'

" 'Bessie Kozel has replaced Lupe Valez in the public's favor. She received her inspiration from the production "Hotcha," which Lupe featured in 1932.' "

Harold: " 'And Christine Miller has become queen of the Night Clubs.'

" 'Dr. William Britton, who has established a hospital for sick cats.' "

(Looks at watch): " 'The famous hotel manager, our old schoolmate, Bob Hanna, is waiting for us to join him at dinner.' "

CLASS WILL

Helen Pinkerman

Lillian Jackson

We, the class of nineteen hundred and thirty-two of Tecumseh High School, in the county of Lenawee and state of Michigan, being sound in mind and with only a few hours remaining before passing into the unknown, leave this document as our last will and testament:

I. We therefore bestow upon our worthy successors, the Juniors, our Senior dignity; may they cherish it and use it to the best of their ability.

II. At last we will the little Freshmen the high ideals and good standards of our class.

III. Virginia Brazee, Christine Miller and Marion Bock wish to will their quiet ways to Mary Badalucco.

IV. Thomas Hamilton leaves his excellent methods of bluffing to "Eddie" Wilson. (Use them as you do your own, "Eddie.")

V. "Doc" Morden leaves his glasses and note writing ability to a handsome Junior boy so Clara won't be lonesome next year.

VI. Abraham Hodge leaves his schemes for getting bargains to the future Senior president. (You'll probably need it.)

VII. Harold Daisher wills his debating accomplishments to Allen French.

VIII. Glenna Grigg wished to transfer her sunny disposition to anyone wishing to get along well in the world.

IX. Lorraine Herring wills her "A's" to any Freshman desiring to be Valedictorian.

X. Bill Britton bequeathes his ability for consuming noodles to "Coach" Wilson. (Come on, Coach; don't give up.)

XI. Harold Moon leaves his conceit to "Taxi" Jones, although she doesn't need it—each bit adds to the collection.

XII. Raymond Puffer leaves his good understanding of mathematics to Loren Avery.

XIII. Aileen Roff, Neoma Kuhl, Alyce Van Vleet, Lloyd Sager, Charles Buck, and Lloyd Wagner have jauntily expressed their desire to give Dale Colson some of their height. (Don't you think "Dewey" needs it?)

XIV. Maxine Daisher and Irene Craig will their desires to go with Britton men to Mary Smith.

XV. Leslie Aebersold contributes his ability to publish a real annual to anyone accepting the challenge.

XVI. Margaret Pennington, Erma Van Valkenburg, Bessie Kozel, and Margaret Dove leave to oncoming Senior girls a collection of excellent hot lunch recipes.

XVII. Mildred Wright and Martha Hand have two perfectly balanced bookkeeping books which they wish to leave to two Sophomores in need of them.

XVIII. Dean Cook, Charles Cox, Frank Robinette, Glenn Simmerson, Maurice Feight, and Lawrence Williams leave the agricultural department for Nelson Wright to carry on.

XIX. William Wright bequeathes a good Latin Pony, scarcely used, to Sally Heilman so she can get the early start William lacked.

XX. Elizabeth Kidman wills her lady-like manners to Anna Soncrant.

XXI. Marguerite Leonhardt bequeathes her ability to handle a curling iron to Phyllis Edwards.

XXII. Naomi Frost gives her attractive disposition to any Sophomore who feels a lack of this characteristic.

XXIII. Harold Coates wishes to leave with Miss Brazee a well worn and much used catalogue on the selling points of the city of Kalamazoo.

XXIV. Clayton Greenwald generously shares one thousand of his curly locks to Mr. Gamble for future use.

XXV. Walter Hall leaves his ability to graduate with as little work as possible to Miss Eaton for safe keeping.

XXVI. Helen Leighton wishes to transfer her ability as treasurer to Elman Service and Ed. Hodge.

XXVII. Wilson Haight bequeathes his enthusiastic efforts for his class to John Anderson.

XXVIII. Robert Hanna leaves with Gene Crane the care of his Adrian dates. (Gene should be able to keep track of them.)

XXVIX. Anna Hamilton has asked that we will her bright "Irish Eyes" to Betty Linger. (These should help you watch "Spot.")

We hereby appoint the Most Honorable Mr. Dustin, Superintendent of Tecumseh High School, situated in the city of Tecumseh, as executor of this last will and testament. Lastly, we hereby revoke all former wills made by us at any time.

In Witness Whereof, we have hereunto set our hand and seal this eighth day of June, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, nineteen hundred and thirty-two.

CLASS POEM

Virginia Brazee

Charles Buck

'Twas in the fall of twenty-eight
On the morning bright and fair
That seventy bashful Freshies
Were having their first great care
Of asking upper classmen
For English, where must we go?
And all the while discovering
That there was still more to know.

That following summer was wonderful
For we came back so wise,
To take our places as Sophomores
Who always love to rise.
We could not stay here very long,
Our heads grew much too fast;
So we patterned after the Juniors—
Those who had been Sophs last.

Promoted to the Junior class
One has quite jolly times;
We now know most anything
From French to Shakespeare's rhymes.
Much studying seemed to be the style;
But nearing our last mile
On the path to our destination
It surely was worth while.

In the autumn of thirty-one,
When the leaves were beginning to fall,
This surviving group of twenty-eight
Again gathered there in the hall.
The term is advancing all too swift,
Our schooldays will soon be done;
But to T. H. S. we will all be true,
Our Senior Class of thirty-two.

CLASS SONG

Elizabeth Kidman

Glenna Grigg

We're gathered here tonight,
Happy and true;
Our hearts in thoughts are bright,
Our song we sing.
Memories fond and dear
Bring back to us
Friendships that we had here
In T. H. S.

Now that our goal is won
Through efforts brave,
Silver and crimson
Our colors bright.
Now is success attained,
Our ways are parting;
But always thoughts retained
Of T. H. S.

VALEDICTORY

Lorraine Herring

Tonight is the night toward which we have been working for twelve happy years. This has been our one aim. There is no life so unhappy and discontented as the one that is aimless. To one who aims low, or not at all, success can never come.

We have succeeded. We have been given the foundation of our future life. What we build on it will affect our character. Character is not given to us, we form it ourselves. Others may furnish the material, may set before us the right standards and ideals, may guide our action and mold our thoughts—but after all we build our own character. It is we, ourselves, who take of the influence about us, copy the ideals, reach the standards, and make us what we are.

Our parents and teachers and all those about us have furnished the pattern from which we shape our lives. Day by day we have unconsciously been absorbing things that have been set before us as being either good or bad. Upon these we have based our ideal. The ideal, one has in mind, is the limit of perfection for that person. It is better that we aim at the impossible than be content with the inferior. If we limit our ideals and aspirations to those easily attainable; if those ideals are only earthly, material ones—knowledge, personal advancement, ability, honor, worldly possessions—even though our aspirations be realized and we rise high in the world, still we will not find the satisfaction in our attainment for which we had hoped.

Because we have dreamed of some day attaining the best things in life, we have labored earnestly and steadfastly so that such may be our reward. We have striven to keep acquainted with our parents and teachers during our growing years and understanding their point of view so that we may better ourselves in every way. Our character-building has gone on every day with the watchful guidance of those very dear to us. We wish to thank the ones who have worked and sacrificed to make of us the very best men and women.

All of this has required effort; effort from our parents, our teachers, and from us, for, after all, "Nothing is Achieved without Effort."

PRESIDENT'S FAREWELL ADDRESS

Abraham Hodge

I am sure that all of you will sympathize with me in the feelings which naturally almost overpower me on such an occasion. Many testimonials you have already given me of your affection and of your regard, but this far exceeds them all. I am deeply touched that so many of you have come to bid our class "farewell." Happiness comes to many of us and in many ways, but I can sincerely say that to few students has happiness come in so many ways as it has come to me. Why? I know not, but this I do know, that I have not deserved more than others, and yet a very rich abundance of it has been bestowed upon me.

I have considered being your president during our Senior year a great honor, and have diligently tried in my utmost power to put our class upon a supreme foundation in spite of all obstacles, and making our class a success came only from your hearty cooperation, and broad ideals.

Now that we have striven to attain our High School goal; and successfully done so, we are now, the Pioneers at the first steps of worldly living and exploring, it leads us to the destination where others have left off with our school spirit whispering, "Begin here, if you would not waste your time. This territory has been conquered. Now go forth from this frontier." Naturally I would say to you that I wish you success in your future life, but I would care to define success. Life's success is an illusive ideal, and is as difficult to define as democracy. I shall not essay this definition, but if there is among you, and I know there is, a person who is thinking of what he can put into life instead of what he can take from life, and who has formed a conception of public conscience and leadership ability, that person is building his dream of success upon a rock which all the storms of life will never destroy.

"Farewell" is a word so often lightly uttered and readily forgotten. But when it marks the rounding-off and completion of a chapter of life, the severance of ties many and cherished, of the parting with so many true and faithful friends at once—especially when it is spoken after spending days, weeks, and years together sharing all our troubles, work and joys alike—it "sticks" somewhat in the throat. It becomes, indeed, "the word that makes us pause, and linger." But it does not prompt many other words. It is best expressed in few. Not many words can be added to the old English "Good-bye."

You are not sending me away empty-handed or alone. I depart with happy memories inexhaustible and unalloyed. Spirits more than twain will go with me. Class of 1932, I thank you each and all once more for your diligent cooperation and splendid attitude. We pledged class success and cooperation, and those ideals are fulfilled. Now I summon you with all my cordiality and gratitude, "Farewell."

BASEBALL

Our season was rather disastrous so far as wins are concerned. Our season's record was six wins and 6 losses. However, we placed second in the county.

The following men are lost through graduation: Feight, Hanna, Britton, and Aebersold.

TRACK

While losing most of the team through graduation last year, the prospects of this year's team are fair. Next year's team promises to be a potential winner.

« « «

ORATORY AND DECLAMATION

Tecumseh High School was very fortunate in the Oratory and Declamation contest this year. At the sub-district contest held at Monroe, Abraham Hodge tied for second place with his cration, and Betty Linger placed second in the delivery of her declamation.

DEBATING

We were very proud of our debating team this year. Although they were not in the debating league they won all of their decision debates. There are very good prospects of another successful team next year with four varsity debaters returning.

They lose the services of Marguerite Leonhardt, Richard Sager, and Harold Daisher.

THE SENIOR PLAY

The Senior Play, "It Happened In Hollywood", on March 18, in the assembly, under the direction of Miss Stephens and Miss Morlock. It included a cast of twelve characters. The setting was laid in the home of a society leader in Hollywood, there is a mix-up over the identity of the prince. Finally the real prince shows up and everything ends happily. A good deal of humor is presented throughout the whole play.

JUNIOR PLAY

The Junior Play, "Whimsey", was given in the assembly on April 17th. It was presented to a large audience. The play was very different than what had been presented other years, but each character did his best to make it a success. The setting was laid in Kantrell, a college town, and the scenes were all typical of college life. The cast was composed of twenty-four characters, under the direction of Miss Phelps and Miss Morlock.

SENIOR - JUNIOR PICNIC

The Seniors entertained the Juniors at a picnic at Devils Lake June 4, 1931. A picnic lunch was served by the Seniors, after which swimming, golf, and dancing were enjoyed.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

A delightful Christmas Party, sponsored by the Seniors, was given in the gymnasium, December 18, 1931. The gymnasium was decorated in Christmas colors. Each of the six upper classes was responsible for a tree. The Juniors also fixed up a fire place, which was very attractive.

The orchestra stand was designed to represent a garden wall, with snow and evergreen boughs, and a star of Bethlehem in the background.

The grand march was led by the Senior President, Abraham Hodge, and Bernice Kempf. The music was furnished by an orchestra from Adrian.

JUNIOR - SENIOR RECEPTION

The Juniors entertained the Seniors at a delightful reception on May 22, 1931, in the gymnasium. The gymnasium was decorated in spring flowers, and pastel shade streamers were suspended from the balcony. Butterflies were hung from the ceiling. The orchestra stand was a stone wall and in the background was a large crescent moon.

After the dinner the following program was given:

Introduction of Toastmaster	Wilson Haight
Toastmaster	Abraham Hodge
Greetings to Seniors	Naomi Frost
Response	Lester Handy
Vocal Solo	Miss Morlock
Future Success	Mr. Laidlaw
Specialty Number	Barbara Bradley

After the program dancing was enjoyed by all. Moore's orchestra furnished music for the occasion.

GIRLS SPORTS

A girls' athletic club was organized under the direction of Miss Brazee for the purpose of a recreation night. They met every Wednesday night at 7:30. The officers of the club are: President, Mary Audrey Smith; Vice-President, Phyllis Edwards.

JOKES

William Britton

Engene Crane: Have you read "Freckles"?

Elmer Sneary: No, mine are brown.

Bob Hanna: My marks are not what they should be.

Mr. Welling: I know that, but I don't want to make you ineligible for any of the games.

Miss Russell: Bunny, what three words does a school boy use most?

Bunny Sutton: I don't know.

Miss Russell: Correct. Be seated.

Can you Answer?: How far can a horse fly? Why is Paris Green? Is a baby buggy? Has a window pane? How far is a little ways? How wide is a narrow escape? How many peeps in a key hole?

Phyllis Jones: I'm not happy.

Gus Wright: Won't my presence make you so?

Phyllis: Yes, your presents will.

Phyllis Palmer: Why do they call you Bill?

Bill Hanna: I was born on the first of the month.

Bob Hamilton: If I kissed you would you call for your mother?

Anna Soncrant: You bet I would. She bet me five dollars I couldn't make you do it.

Hey, Jekyle, how's your Hyde?

Motorist: Madam, I fear your puppy is dead. If you will allow me I will replace the animal.

Owner: Sir, you flatter yourself.

Freshman—Know most of it.

Sophomore—Know it all.

Juniors—Know a little.

Seniors—Know nothing.

"I'll be dammed," said the brook as the fat lady fell into the water.

Mr. Wagner: Why do frogs croak?

Fred Kopke: They can't live forever, I suppose.

Ed. Wilson: There's something wrong with these rabbits you sold me. They have the hiccoughs.

Chas. Beland: My dear sir, they are Belchin Hares.

Miss Stephens: (Repeating the sentence) John hit the cow. What mood?

Herbert Morden: The cow.

Walter Morden: She told me she could learn to love me.

Elizabeth Sutton: Well, then, why did she turn you down?

Walter: I interrupted one of her lessons.

Mary Audrey (at a football game): My, but those boys are dirty! How will they ever get clean?

Bill: That's what the scrub team is for.

Betty Linger: What are weinies?

Edwin Richardson: Hamburg with tights on, foolish.

Raymond Puffer: Your skin is as smooth as olives.

Ruth LaBounty: Oh, indeed, and when were you out with her?

Earl to bed, early to rise,
Keeps ones kid brother from wearing ones ties.

Abe Hodge: I've stopped worrying about going broke.

Bernice: What do you mean?

Abe: I mean I am.

Harold Moon: I'm going to quit smoking.

Bill Britton: I noticed that none of the boys seemed to have any this noon.

She (answering the phone): Who is this?

He: This is Boo.

She: Boo? Boo who?

He: Don't cry, little girl, I'll take you out.

Mr. Dustin: Waiter, I smell fresh paint.

Allen French: Just a minute more, sir. The girls at the next table are about ready to leave.

Mrs. Jones: And did you let him kiss you?

Phyllis: Let him? I had to help him.

Helen Rosacrans: You should always think about the future.

Bud McLaughlin: I can't. Today is Helen's birthday and I have to think about the present.

Miss Morlock: Who wrote the greatest war song in the world?

Tom Hamilton: Mendelssohn.

Miss Morlock: What was it?

Tom: "Here Comes the Bride."

Dr. Beardsley: Your studies are suffering, son. Do you need a coach?

Jim: No, dad, a roadster will do.

Miss Juckett: How many make a dozen?

Merval Mattis: Twelve.

Miss Juckett: How many make a million?

Merval: Very few.

Mr. Wagner: What would you do if an insect crawled in your ear?

Paul Kopke: I would blow in the other ear.

Wilson Haight: Aw, ma, I know where I came from now.

Mrs. Haight: W-why, Wilson, what do you mean?

Wilson: Well, my name's Wilson, isn't it? And I just passed a high building with the sign on it "Wilson Manufacturing Co."

Miss Eaton: Are you sure this oration is original?
 Bill Haight: Well, you might find one or two of the words in the dictionary.
 Why is a Ford like our English Class (English Literature)?
 Because it has the crank in front and all the nuts in their places.
 Walter Morden: Say, do you know I was taken for Roosevelt once?
 Raymond Puffer: That's nothing. A man thought I was Wilson.
 Tom Hamilton: Piffle! Once a man stepped up to me and said, "Holy Moses! Is that you?"

Here's to our faculty,
 Long may they live,
 Even as long
 As the lessons they give.
