"Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life:
no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." —John 14:6.

The Way, The Truth, and the Life

O thou great Friend to all the sons of men,
Who once appear'dst in humblest guise below,
Sin to rebuke, to break the captive's chain,
To call Thy brethren forth from want and woe!
Thee would I sing. Thy truth is still the light
Which guides the nations groping on their way,
Stumbling and falling in disastrous night,
Yet hoping ever for the perfect day.

Yes, Thou art still the life: Thou art the way
The holiest know — light, life, and way of heaven;

And they who dearest hope and deepest pray
Toil by the truth, life, way that Thou hast given;

And in Thy name aspiring mortals trust
To uplift their bleeding brothers rescued from the dust.

—Theodore Parker

For the past six years the Student Council of Tecumseh High School has arranged for weekly chapel services in which the local ministers have been happy to have a part. In these chapel programs the ministers have sought to give emphasis to the great truths which all Christians hold in common.

In these days of stress and conflict we all need the courage, strength, and inward peace that comes from faith in God. Let us pray in the words of the soldiers' poet:

God of our fathers, known of old,
Lord of our far-flung battle-line,
Beneath whose awful Hand we hold
Dominion over palm and pine—
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

The tumult and the shouting dies;
The Captains and the Kings depart:
Still stands Thine ancient sacrifice,
An humble and a contrite heart.
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

—Rudyard Kipling

VALEDICTORY

Gay Larsen

Parents, Teachers, Classmates and Friends:

It is perplexing and confusing to graduate in this war year. We find ourselves not only engaged in the most far-reaching and total war in the history of mankind, but also in the midst of a world-wide industrial and social revolution — industrial, because industry is expanding on a gigantic scale, and mass production has developed to a degree never dreamed of before; social, because the countries that we are fighting have undergone complete social revolutions and, even in America, we are slowly, definitely undergoing a change in our fundamental social philosophy.

You may ask why we high school graduates should concern ourselves with this problem. Many of us leaving Tecumseh High School this year will be thrust immediately into this turmoil, and all of us in a few short years will be required to make decisions about our post-war world, so that we may preserve the greatest possible amount of individual initiative. Americans do not want to live in a government-controlled country. The only "ism" that we want is Americanism.

High schools are showing that they are aware of these problems by making their students realize the fact that their world consists of more than the necessary fundamentals—home, mother, dad, and school.

Their interests and knowledge are being broadened by intensified courses in economics, geography, political science and similar studies seldom heard of in high school previously. Another most important need that is being met by schools is the necessity for more complete vocational education. For most young people, especially in a school like ours, high school is the end of their formal education. It will certainly be practical, therefore, to have the vocational department take a much larger place in the schools. The object now is to set up a comprehensive enough course so that when vocational students graduate they will be ready to step into jobs as skilled workers.

During a war, thought of further education is often neglected. It is very important for us to go on to college and to the university at this time, because the young people who are graduating now will be required to take the places of men who have gone to war and will not return. There has been a leaning toward throwing out everything that is not directly connected with the war. We should and must put most, if not all, of our effort toward winning it. But let us not drop the classical or literary side of education. It has been the foundation of a culture which has formed the background of the greatest civilization the world has produced. It is necessary, temporarily, to set aside the impractical and take up the practical. We must, however, be careful not to set it so far aside that we will not be able to pick it up again when we want it.

VALEDICTORY — (Continued)

Perhaps the group that needs the best understanding of the world situation is the group going immediately into various fields of service. Most, if not all, of the boys in the class will soon be in the service of their country. Certainly it will be important for them to know what they are fighting for and against. Young women are facing an entirely different life. Because so many of the men have gone, they are learning to work with the men and to take up their jobs in shop, store, and office. Both of these fields of service are temporary, and, we trust of short duration. It is only natural that when the war is over the men will return to their jobs, and most of the women will return to the type of work which they did before the war. It is apparent, however, that because of the urgency of war, women have been placed on a more equal footing with men in industry, and undoubtedly this will result in fields of work for them which were formerly reserved entirely for men.

I have said that it is confusing to graduate in a war year. It is true for this reason: the world has come to a whirlpool in its progress and we, graduating, are caught in the midst of it. We do not know what is going to happen, and no one can tell us. The one thing we do know is this—that in the midst of this uncertainty and unrest, the graduate has now the greatest opportunity for advancement that man has ever witnessed. We are very fortunate in that sense to be graduating now, for each one of us has a real opportunity to progress in almost any field which we might choose.

And so, tonight we graduate, facing a world unsure, unsafe for some of us, but holding great hope and promise for all of us.

SALUTATORY

Marjorie Van Winkle

PARENTS, TEACHERS, and FRIENDS:

This occasion, that of extending a welcome to you on this eve of the graduation of the Class of 1943, affords me a great deal of pleasure. We are happy to share the evening with you. This graduation was made possible only through the sacrifice and co-operation, the loyalty and trust of you, our teachers and parents.

Twelve years have slipped away, and now we enter a new phase of life. We can look with satisfaction down the years that have passed. But there comes to each and every one of us, I am sure, the desire to look forward, and we try to imagine what the coming years will bring. We hope that they will be even more profitable than the ones which have gone. We trust that every one of us will be given the power to think clearly and to plan and act wisely, and the courage to carry out these plans to a successful conclusion.

We are deeply grateful that we live in the United States of America, where we can not only think, but can express our thoughts, and we are limited in our accomplishments only by our own abilities and ambitions. Let us dedicate ourselves to the building of a better society, the making of a better civilization, and the strengthening of the American way of life.

Our final words of appreciation are reserved for those who are nearest and dearest to us, and who love us best of all—our parents. Any success that has come to us during these past years is as much yours as ours. Your never-ending encouragement and sacrifices will never be forgotten.

Classmates, we realize that our country's freedom is once more in jeopardy. Tonight, let us dedicate our lives to the defense of American freedom, and, in the words of our class motto, "Let victory be our aim; peace, our achievement."

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Malcolm Bagshaw

We, the Class of 1943, are facing the greatest challenge ever issued to a high school graduating class. "Preserve our way of life" is our watchword, and it is with that in mind that we approach the end of our high school career.

Already, four of our classmates have yielded to that unrest which at some time or other has gripped every boy in the class. Our four sailors are now serving the flag in various parts of the world. We are proud of them, and we wish that they could be present tonight.

Three other boys of our class have been inducted, but were granted a deferment to graduate. Several others have enlisted in various groups, while the rest will be required to register before the summer is over.

The boys are not alone in this all-out war effort. The girls, too, have a huge task ahead of them. They are going to help keep the assembly lines humming, the typewriters clicking, so that the war effort on the home front will never bog down. Some of them will eventually find their way into the ranks of the women's service organizations. Yes, the Class of 1943 is but waiting its call to the colors.

It is not difficult to determine that our duty is to give everything we have to the common cause of victory. We of the Class of '43 are proud to have such an important place in shaping the new world and the new America.

Classmates, it has been an honor and a privilege to serve you as president for the past three years. I have enjoyed the splendid co-operation which you have given. Perhaps before long when we're driving a "jeep," flying a plane, working a rivet gun, or just day-dreaming, we'll look back on all the good times and fun we had at good old Tecumseh High School.

When this war is all over, and the world is at peace again, when we're carrying out the plans that we had for our lives before our country became engaged in a struggle for its very existence, perhaps we may be able to gather together as a group once more, and renew our friendships in a new and better world.

CLASS POEM

Don Brazee

Tecumseh High will forever stand
In the memories of us all;
These exciting, eventful years will live
While others will fade and fall.

We're proud of our school and the standards it has:
Honesty, courage, and truth;
Its bounties are given to all to share
To help train American youth.

We've seen events that have rocked the world,
And threatened our way of life.
Our thoughts and habits are changed today
Because of this war and strife.

We've trained ourselves for the task ahead,
And we'll see it through to the end;
For victory is ours to accomplish,
Democracy, ours to defend.

And now that our school days are over,
We go forward, courageous and free,
To meet the eternal challenge
Of the threat of our liberty.

CLASS SONG

Margaret Zick

HIGH SCHOOL LIGHTS

Just four short years ago, we classmates were sailing,
With hearts and hopes aglow, with courage unfailing,
The winds of life might blow,
Our fate we did not know.
Into the future we sailed, not long ago.

We saw the High School Lights;
They told us that a class was starting
Out on the sea of life, with courage high and true.
We watched those High School Lights,
Sharing together joy and parting,
Those same old High School Lights
Beside life's sea so blue.

And as the years slipped by and precious moments flew,
We knew that High School days were numbered now and few,
So, good-bye, High School Lights,
You tell us now that we are parting—
Good-bye, old High School Lights,
We sing farewell to you.

CLASS HISTORY

Mary Jane Smith and Jane Leighton

We, the Class of '43, started our cruise through High School in September, 1939, with seventy passengers. For the first lap of our journey, we selected as Captain, Marjorie Colson; First Mate, Malcolm Bagshaw; Purser, Mary Jane Smith; as our representative in the Student Council, Jane Leighton; and Class Adviser, Mr. Mead. First of all, on our journey, our able-bodied Captain and her assisting officers planned a snow party at Keeney's Orchard, which was a big success. Then in the spring came the Carnival, in which we made our first big money. We also had the largest representation in the Operetta, and, as a result, received a share of the profits. So the first year we came through with clear sailing.

We sailed into our Sophomore year ready to accomplish great things, although a few of our passengers had been left along the way. We changed officers, choosing Malcolm Bagshaw as Captain; Bob Laidlaw, as First Mate; Mary Jane Smith, as Purser; Mary Wright, as our Student Council representative, and Mr. Mead as our Adviser. During this year we sponsored several skating parties at Sand Lake, in which many of the students participated. We also put on two dances which were a success. Then came June, and we said "Au revoir" until the next year.

Having completed two laps of our cruise, we came back to school ready to launch the third lap. As Captain through this rough part of the journey, we again chose Malcolm Bagshaw; as First Mate, Bob Laidlaw; as Purser, Mary Jane Smith; as representatives, Delee Perin and Harvey Proctor; and our same Adviser, Mr. Mead. During this part of our cruise we were sorry to lose Mr. Young, one of our guides along the way. We now had a good chance to show our acting ability, as we staged the play "Goodnight, Ladies," which was a great success. We also participated in another carnival. At the end of the football season we held our first big dance, called the "Football Frolic." In May we were delighted at the prospect of putting on the Junior-Senior Reception. We followed the good neighbor policy in having our setting represent South America. Everyone enjoyed it very much.

Our Senior year brought us to the last lap of our travels, which had been through rough and busy times, but we survived with sixty passengers left out of the original seventy. We re-elected Malcolm Bagshaw as Captain; we chose Jack Osburn as First Mate; Mary Jane Smith as Purser for the fourth time; George Murdoch and Donald Winter as Student Council representatives; and we selected Mr. Mead once more as our Adviser. Our first class activity was a magazine campaign. Then came our Senior play, which was even a greater success than the one we gave the year before. It was a lively play called "Two Minutes To Go."

About this time we lost four of our able-bodied Seamen—Donald Smith, Donald Russell, Russell Collins, and George Underwood. They joined the Navy to show us that they could sail rougher seas than they ever had in high school, and also to help in the fight for freedom, in which we are all interested. Our good wishes went with them.

With high spirits we continued to raise funds for a trip to Mackinac Island on June 6th. In the meantime we were honored by a reception given by the Juniors.

We have now completed our happy journey through High School, and we must separate to sail on life's high seas, where each will choose which way his ship shall go. Let us hope that each will be given wisdom to choose the finest and best, and in a large measure, to realize his hopes and dreams.

FOOTBALL

There was plenty of reason for Coach Neville Hart to be in his usual high spirits when the Tecumseh High football team ended its 1942 season. For the second straight year the Tecumseh gridders walked off with the Lenawee County Athletic Association football title. The Indians gathered seven victorious decisions in nine starts, tallying 138 points to their opponents 49.

In the initial contest the Indians battled a tough Milan team in a game that was played between the two 20-yard lines. The only score of the game came in the second quarter, when a long pass from Proctor to Bagshaw was good for a Tecumseh touchdown. The final score read: Tecumseh 7, Milan 0.

Hudson was scheduled as the second Tecumseh foe. The Indians took a helping of the Tigers' scalps, and toppled the Hudson squad in the mud of Thompson field, in Hudson. The Indians got the 24 to 0 decision.

A powerful gridiron machine from Michigan Center handed the Indians their first defeat in two years. The inspired Indians held the invaders to nine points and staged a last quarter march that brought them a touchdown. But it was too late, and Michigan Center got the nod, 9 to 6.

Everything was on the Indians' side for the next game which was with their traditional rivals, the Clinton Redskins. A record crowd of Tecumseh rooters turned out for the game, and the Indians didn't let them down.

Clinton tallied first and held a slim 7 to 6 lead at the end of the first half. But Tecumseh's power overcame the visitors after the intermission. Cliff Jackson and Harvey Proctor each hit pay dirt once on running plays while John Snyder carried winning mail on a pass. Clinton was defeated 18 to 7.

A trip to Adrian to play the Irish of St. Mary's High School proved to be no more than a workout for the Indians. Power was the order of the day, and St. Mary's was swamped, 45 to 0.

The Manchester Dutchmen were the next foe to fall before the victory-minded Indians. The Tecumseh lads wasted no time, scoring twice in the first quarter and once in the third while the opposition was being held scoreless. The final count read: Tecumseh 19, Manchester 0.

In the next game a dark-horse Morenci eleven came to town with the hope of upsetting the title-bound Indians. Although they didn't accomplish this, they managed to hold the Indians to a lone touchdown and a hard-earned 6 to 0 victory. The fact that the game was played in almost ankle-deep mud probably accounts more than anything else for the low score.

The final home game of the season pitted our ancient rivals, the Blissfield Sugar Boys, against the Indians. Although the game was keenly contested, it was well played and a creditable performance was turned in by both elevens. The Indians scored twice in the early stages of the contest and blanked the Sugar Boys until late in the fourth quarter, when a long pass was good for a Blissfield score. Neither team threatened thereafter, and Tecumseh came out on top, 13 to 6.

Tecumseh stepped out of its class on the night of November 11th, and as a result, absorbed a 27 to 0 beating at the hands of the Adrian Maples. The Indians lost the services of Co-captain Harvey Proctor early in the first quarter, and their attack failed to function thereafter.

Malcolm Bagshaw, Bob Laidlaw, Jack Osborn, Don Winter, John Snyder, George Underwood, Russell Collins, Don Smith, Karl Schneider, Gale Taylor, and Co-captain Harvey Proctor carried the pigskin for the last time for Tecumseh High. They left behind them five lettermen: Co-captains Cliff Jackson and Jack Brown, and Jim Osburn, Bill Sisson, and Doug Murdoch.

BASEBALL

In spite of the transportation handicap, Tecumseh is organizing a baseball team this season. The team has high hopes of winning the county championship this year, and although two of the teams in the league have dropped out, the rivalry between the remaining teams will be more keen than ever, and our boys expect to meet with stiff competition during the ensuing season.

The 1943 schedule is as follows:

April 23	Macon
April 30.....	Manchester (there)
May 7.....	Hudson (there)
May 14.....	Clinton (there)
May 21.....	Clinton (here)
May 28.....	Open Date

BASKETBALL

The Tecumseh High School basketball team turned in a creditable record for the season of 1942-43. The Indians captured twelve victories in fifteen starts, and, for the third consecutive year, annexed the State District Championship.

Six veterans returned from last year's squad to form the starting line-up for the major portion of the games. They were:

Captain Bob Laidlaw, the pivot-shot artist, who made more than his share of points. His work on the backboard was especially commendable, and fine leadership also characterized his play.

John Hamilton, a dead-eye Dick when it comes to shooting. His timely shots kept us out in front on numerous occasions.

"Stu" Costigan, the flashy little "mite" who was such a nuisance to his opponents. He was a good floor man, who got the ball into scoring position.

Jack Osburn, the most aggressive "scrappier" on the floor, whose fighting spirit never faltered, much to the opponents' regret. He made his share of the points and was a good sportsman throughout the year.

Jack Brown, a stalwart defensive young man under the backboard. Although Jack didn't score as much as he is capable of, his timely snatching of the ball on the backboard saved the Indians many points.

Don Brazee, a steady dependable guard, who could flip them in the basket with unerring regularity. Don was also a good fighter and was always a head-ache to his opponents.

Others on the squad who saw plenty of active service were:

"Doug" Murdoch, a player unequaled in spirit and determination, whose play contributed much to the success of the team.

George Murdoch, a prolific rebound man, who, when called upon, gave a good account of himself.

Jim Osburn, the dribbling demon, and Charles Bancroft, the dog-shot artist, the only two Sophomores to gain a berth on the varsity.

In speaking of the Tecumseh cage team, it would be a major mistake indeed to overlook the man who made it what it was; we mean, of course, Coach Fred Raizk. It is almost useless to speak about his merits, for his record speaks for itself. Perhaps the most appreciation for his untiring efforts is felt by the players themselves, who not only acquired a wealth of cage tricks, but learned the true meaning of sportsmanship and self-control.

Bad luck seemed to plague the team at times, and when one player was experiencing a good night on the court, a teammate would find himself in a slump. In all fairness to the varsity squad, it should be pointed out that out of the three games that were lost, two of them were dropped by two-point margins and the other by four.

One finds it quite easy to use the customary superlatives in referring to the Tecumseh five. Suffice it to say that it rated among the best produced by this school; the team possessed harmony, and produced results in keeping with the Indians' fine record on the hard-wood.

The highlight of the season occurred when the Indians came through with flying colors and thumped out a score of 32 to 26 over Dundee, to capture the State District title.

TRACK

Tecumseh High School ended its 1942 track season crowned with laurels. Last year the Indian thinclads, under the direction of Coach Aden E. Mead, brought the Lenawee County Athletic Association track and field championship back to Tecumseh after an absence of eight years. The Indians turned the trick by conquering the combined forces of Morenci and Blissfield in a conflict that wasn't decided until the final event had been posted. The team scores were as follows: Tecumseh 51, Morenci 50, and Blissfield 29.

The success of the Tecumseh squad cannot be traced to any one man; the team performed well as a unit, as do almost all successful cinder brigades.

At this writing, because of the seriousness of the transportation problem, it is doubtful whether a schedule for the coming season will be arranged. However, the following lettermen are returning from last year's squad, and will be ready to carry on if they are called upon: Bagshaw, Brazee, Brown, Hamilton, Osborn, and Proctor.

JUNIOR-SENIOR RECEPTION

With a night in South America as its theme, the annual Junior-Senior Reception was presented to the Seniors by the Class of 1943 on May 23, 1942.

The orchestra was seated in the patio of a South American home, and drawings on the walls represented the surrounding country. There was a gate leading into an imaginary garden at one end and a balcony at the other.

The dinner was served by ten Sophomore girls and boys. A program which followed the dinner consisted of the following:

Comenicar cantar	Donald Winter
Presentar el jefe.....	Karl Schneider
El jefe	Malcolm Bagshaw
No hay de qu'e alumna.....	Bob Laidlaw
Responda.....	Bob Mohr
America del Sur Bailar.....	Lenore Larsen
Primero hablar	Mr. Paul Johnson
Segunds hablar.....	Ethel Cook
Musical	Margaret Zick
Tercero hablar	Mr. Aden Mead

Following the program there was dancing, the music being furnished by Mac McLain and his orchestra.

MAY PARTY

The second all-school dance of last year was held May 29, 1942. The decorations were the same as for the Junior-Senior Reception, and music was furnished by Bob Andrews and his orchestra.

GRIDIRON DANCE

Following practically the same plan of decorating as that used by the Class of 1942, the Class of 1943 sponsored a Gridiron Dance on November 13, 1942. The music was furnished by Berny Miller and his orchestra.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Christmas Party, first of the two annual dances of the year, was held on December 23, 1942, sponsored by the Class of 1943.

The decorations were in keeping with the holiday season. There was a red, green, and white ceiling, and two brightly-lighted Christmas trees and pine branches enclosed the band-stand. At the north end of the gym was the refreshment stand, with three large artificial candles on each side and wreaths decorating the walls.

One hundred and fifty couples danced to the music of George Gordon and his orchestra.

The Raleighs decided to use their old house for a dormitory, hoping that the revenue from it would defray expenses. Aunt Barbara and Aunt Flora Stevens are willing to come to act as matrons, but their arrival is postponed. Miss Eggleby threatens to spoil the dormitory plan when she refuses to let any girls stay there until the matrons arrive. Sam and Jug are finally convinced that the only thing left to do is for them to impersonate the two aunts until they arrive. Hilarious scenes and difficult situations arise as a result of their impersonations, but everything turns out happily in the end.

SYNOPSIS

"Spike" Reagan, accompanied by his wife, Sandra, comes to Trenton to take the coaching job that was left vacant when the former coach, who put winning above all other things, was dismissed. Supt. Wilson puts his faith in "Spike," but Asst. Coach Birchard, feeling slighted because he was not named to the new post, refuses to co-operate. The players, quick to sense this lack of co-operation, lose interest; an important game is lost, and the town is in a turmoil. Coach Reagan, firm in his resolve to handle the team as he thinks it should be, stands his ground. When all of the team's stars are benched, and his second-stringers are thrown into the breach, some startling developments take place. The all-important championship game is finally won, but only after one of the most thrilling finishes a game ever produced.

PRE-FLIGHT AERONAUTICS

The three-semester course in Pre-Flight Aeronautics which was introduced the second semester of this year represents one of the adjustments in our school program designed to meet war-time needs. The course was opened to all boys of the eleventh and twelfth grades, without prerequisites, as a means of exploring the various related fields of aerodynamics, engine mechanics, navigation, meteorology and communications and as a means of preliminary preparation for service in one of the air forces of our country. Model planes and other visual aids in the form of sound films and film strips are being used extensively to vitalize the course. Mr. Johnson is the instructor.
